

ON-GROUND REHABILITATION ACTION

Norwich Park, BHP Mitsubishi Alliance

Norwich Park is a hard, coking coal open cut mine located 25 kilometres south-east of Dysart and 256 kilometres south-west of Mackay in the Bowen Basin, Queensland. In 2012, production ceased and the site was placed into care and maintenance.

BHP Mitsubishi Alliance has undertaken a broad scope of restorative works to rehabilitate the land both during the course of its mining activities and after they had ceased, from re-shaping the landscape, ripping, ameliorating, spreading topsoil and seeding to encourage revegetation to make the land suitable for its agreed post mining land use. Some of this rehabilitated land is now being used for grazing by neighbouring landholders. On 7 February 2019, 294 hectares of rehabilitated land was certified by the Queensland Government.
